

NO PUBLIC TRANSPARENCY / TRUST-ME MODEL · SCRIPT A

"Trust me, bro" is not a public-records policy

Mayor Crawford, members of City Council. My name is [Your Name], and I live in Crossville.

Please reject the "trust me, bro" model.

Crossville has not published a public camera map, a written search policy residents can read, or monthly reports showing who searched what and why. The Flock "transparency portal" URL for Crossville has not been available to the public. Atlas of Surveillance, a public camera-mapping project, listed cameras. The city has not matched that with open documentation.

If this program were modest and carefully limited, transparency would be easy. Instead we get assurances. That is not accountability. That is asking us to approve the program with no real proof.

Tennessee's retention statute caps how long data may be stored. It is not a substitute for local rules, audits, or public reporting. Neighboring East Tennessee campaigns are asking the same questions the City of Crossville still has not answered on the record: who can query local reads, which partners share data, and whether FreeForm natural-language search or Multi-Geo cross-city travel tools are enabled.

I am asking you to stop asking residents to take surveillance on trust. I will know transparency when I can open a city page and see the map, the rules, the partners, and last month's searches without filing a Tennessee Public Records Act request. Until then, every renewal is another vote based on trust instead of documents. That is how mass surveillance spreads.

THE ASK (say this)

My ask is clear. Cancel Crossville's Flock contract and remove the cameras. Require a public hearing and a recorded City Council vote before any surveillance equipment is ever proposed again. If you will not cancel yet, take a recorded yes-or-no vote each year before any renewal, with no automatic renewal that skips a public vote, and publish monthly use reports the public can check. Thank you. I yield.
