

CEO & VENDOR TRUST · SCRIPT B

Who you buy from matters

Mayor Crawford, members of City Council. My name is [Your Name], and I live in Crossville.

Who you buy from matters, not just the camera hardware.

Flock's CEO has a public record residents can read. In August 2025, the company admitted that some remarks about federal access were inaccurate. Later comments treated FOIA and public-records requests as a coordinated attack. The CEO also likened people who map publicly visible cameras to a terroristic or Antifa-style threat. That is not how a trustworthy public contractor talks about citizens.

Staunton, VA, cancelled after that fight over values. Other cities have walked away over transparency fights and CEO messaging. Crossville does not need to wait for our own scandal to notice the pattern.

I support the police and fully acknowledge how difficult their job is. I do not support paying a company that paints oversight as extremism. Crossville should also ask whether the vendor is truthful and accurate about federal access, respects public-records requests, and treats residents as citizens rather than enemies. On those measures, the public record is bad enough.

THE ASK (say this)

My ask is clear. Cancel Crossville's Flock contract and remove the cameras. Require a public hearing and a recorded City Council vote before any surveillance equipment is ever proposed again. If you will not cancel yet, take a recorded yes-or-no vote each year before any renewal, with no automatic renewal that skips a public vote, and publish monthly use reports the public can check. Thank you. I yield.
