

TAXPAYER LIABILITY FROM PLATE MISREADS · SCRIPT B

The city owns the downside when the camera is wrong

About 1.6 min at ~140 words/min · 228 words · Replace [Your Name]. Speak calmly. One speaker, one focus.

Tip: swap bracketed fields. Cite numbers carefully. End with the cancel / yearly-vote ask.

Mayor Crawford, members of City Council. My name is [Your Name], and I live in Crossville.

Flock sells a camera lease. Taxpayers keep the lawsuit risk.

Public reporting keeps documenting the same pattern: plate-reader errors put innocent people at gunpoint. Settlements in other cities prove the downside is real money, often hundreds of thousands or more, spent because a machine misread a character and officers treated the alert as certain instead of slowing down to verify it.

If a bad stop turns into a lawsuit, Crossville is the defendant. Vendor marketing will not sit at the defense table. The city will.

I support catching real criminals. I do not support betting taxpayer money on error-prone mass surveillance. Insurance and indemnity clauses will be waved around. They do not erase financial responsibility when a family is detained because a camera swapped a letter for a number. Removing these cameras now is cheaper than defending a lawsuit later.

THE ASK (say this)

My ask is clear. Cancel Crossville's Flock contract and remove the cameras. Require a public hearing and a recorded City Council vote before any surveillance equipment is ever proposed again. If you will not cancel yet, take a recorded yes-or-no vote each year before any renewal, with no automatic renewal that skips a public vote, and publish monthly use reports the public can check. Thank you. I yield.