Mayor Crawford, members of City Council. My name is [Your Name], and I live in Crossville.

Please stop treating Flock as a simple plate camera. What the product already does, and what Flock told another city council, shows a pattern of selling less than the system can do.

These cameras do more than read plates. The company advertises finding cars by make, model, color, and markings. It advertises searching video for people by clothing. It sells live cameras that can lock onto a person and follow them as they walk. It also sells tools that turn everyday trips, and cars that travel together, into searchable files. That is tracking where people go and who they travel with.

Here is what happened in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. In April 2026, that city council asked Flock in open meeting whether the system creates a heat map of a vehicle's movement. Flock's chief information security officer said no, that is not available. The next morning, Police Chief Dean Smith said the system does create heat maps. Council rescinded the contract the same day, seven to zero. The ACLU later put Oshkosh in a July 2026 report on Flock misleading councils and the public. Flock called the dispute a "minor nuance."

If a vendor understates heat maps to a council, and describes people classification in its patent while marketing "no facial recognition," Crossville should not renew on trust.

THE ASK (say this)

My ask is clear. Cancel Crossville's Flock contract and remove the cameras. Require a public hearing and a recorded City Council vote before any surveillance equipment is ever proposed again. If you will not cancel yet, take a recorded yes-or-no vote each year before any renewal, with no automatic renewal that skips a public vote, and publish monthly use reports the public can check. Thank you. I yield.
