

CITIES CANCELLING AND REMOVING FLOCK · SCRIPT B

Voters are forcing cities to dump Flock

About 1.8 min at ~140 words/min · 250 words · Replace [Your Name]. Speak calmly. One speaker, one focus.

Tip: swap bracketed fields. Cite numbers carefully. End with the cancel / yearly-vote ask.

Mayor Crawford, members of City Council. My name is [Your Name], and I live in Crossville.

Voters are speaking up nationally, across Tennessee, and right here at home.

Staunton, VA, cancelled after Police Chief Jim Williams called resident questions "democracy in action" and the city rejected the CEO's lawlessness narrative. NorthJersey.com reporting and national roundups describe a spreading movement to cancel contracts and remove cameras. Malwarebytes, and other publications, have summarized how and why ordinary towns are pushing back. More councils keep voting the cameras out.

Crossville residents see that trend. They have watched East Tennessee pause camera expansions and Middle Tennessee debate these systems. They will notice if this body pretends nothing changed.

I am asking you to join the cities that chose their voters over mass surveillance. When towns cancel these contracts, that is "democracy in action," as Staunton Police Chief Jim Williams put it. Crossville's silence will be noticed. The City of Crossville should explain on the record why this town should keep what many voters want to get rid of and what so many other cities are dumping.

THE ASK (say this)

My ask is clear. Cancel Crossville's Flock contract and remove the cameras. Require a public hearing and a recorded City Council vote before any surveillance equipment is ever proposed again. If you will not cancel yet, take a recorded yes-or-no vote each year before any renewal, with no automatic renewal that skips a public vote, and publish monthly use reports the public can check. Thank you. I yield.
