

OPEN STREAMS, MISUSE, AND CEO (COMBINED CASE) · SCRIPT B

Security gaps, misuse, and a CEO who attacks oversight

About 2.4 min at ~140 words/min · 331 words · Replace [Your Name]. Speak calmly. One speaker, one focus.

Tip: swap bracketed fields. Cite numbers carefully. End with the cancel / yearly-vote ask.

Mayor Crawford, members of City Council. My name is [Your Name], and I live in Crossville.

I want to talk about security problems with these Flock cameras. Technologist Benn Jordan and researcher Jon Gaines found Flock Condor people-tracking cameras streaming live with no login. 404 Media verified about sixty feeds. Reporter Jason Koebler recorded himself crossing a street in Bakersfield, California, and watched himself on the open livestream. Denver's 9NEWS and West Palm Beach's WFLX reported the company confirmed exposed police camera feeds. Flock called it a limited misconfiguration. Crossville should not trust a vendor that left live feeds on the open internet.

Officers across the country have used Flock for personal stalking and curiosity searches, then lost jobs or faced charges. In Milwaukee, an officer searched a woman he was dating and her ex nearly one hundred eighty times, resigned, and pleaded guilty. An Internal Affairs detective who worked that case was later charged for personal Flock use and for secretly installing a GPS tracker. Georgia departments fired and charged officers in a statewide wave. Oak Ridge, Tennessee, already had a conviction for personal Flock use. That is our state.

Look at Flock's leadership. In Oshkosh, Wisconsin, the company told a city council heat maps were not available. The next morning the police chief said they were. Council killed the deal seven to zero. CEO Garrett Langley called people who map publicly visible cameras a "terroristic organization." Staunton, Virginia, cancelled after his customer email cast public-records requests as a weapon. Crossville should cancel before we learn the same lessons the hard way.

THE ASK (say this)

My ask is clear. Cancel Crossville's Flock contract and remove the cameras. Require a public hearing and a recorded City Council vote before any surveillance equipment is ever proposed again. If you will not cancel yet, take a recorded yes-or-no vote each year before any renewal, with no automatic renewal that skips a public vote, and publish monthly use reports the public can check. Thank you. I yield.

flock safety®

Cameras

2507089002D

2507089002D

Hls Stream

File Content

start (ms)

end (ms)

window (ms)

Load Stream

12/13/2025 17:28:58

Jason Koebler crossing a street median on open Condor livestream (Bakersfield, CA)

