

CROSS-COUNTY SHARING, PROFILES & CONVOYS · SCRIPT BWho else can search Crossville plates?

About 1.9 min at ~140 words/min · 271 words · Replace [Your Name]. Speak calmly. One speaker, one focus.

Tip: swap bracketed fields. Cite numbers carefully. End with the cancel / yearly-vote ask.

Mayor Crawford, members of City Council. My name is [Your Name], and I live in Crossville.

If I were to ask you who has access to search a license plate read from within Crossville city limits right now, how would you answer?

If the answer is "we're not sure" or "trust the network," that is the problem. Flock sells multi-agency visibility. National Lookup and partner sharing debates have already forced the company to walk back public claims about federal access. Crossville still has not published enrollment status, partner lists, or audit logs the public can check.

Convoy-style association tools, which flag cars that travel together, turn carpools into linked files on who travels together. Multi-Geo, which tracks a plate across cities, turns everyday trips into a searchable history. If Crossville has not written a warrant rule, an officer can run those searches without ever going to a judge.

I am asking you to refuse warrantless regional tracking of Cumberland County drivers. Ordinary errands should not be recorded as a registry of who travels with whom. Convoy tools do not know the difference between a suspect network and a carpool to church. This is why mass surveillance without a warrant requirement is the issue.

THE ASK (say this)

My ask is clear. Cancel Crossville's Flock contract and remove the cameras. Require a public hearing and a recorded City Council vote before any surveillance equipment is ever proposed again. If you will not cancel yet, take a recorded yes-or-no vote each year before any renewal, with no automatic renewal that skips a public vote, and publish monthly use reports the public can check. Thank you. I yield.